Assistant: To find the information you need, we have to identify the journal and then locate the specific article by Emily Midkiff from June 2014.

1. *Identify the Journal: According to the query, the journal is named after one of Hreidmar's sons. In Norse mythology, Hreidmar's sons are Fafnir, Regin, and Ottr. The journal fitting this description is likely "Fafnir - Nordic Journal of Science Fiction and Fantasy Research."

2. *Locate the Article: We need to find articles by Emily Midkiff published in June 2014 in "Fafnir". This requires web searching or accessing the journal's archives.

Since I currently don't have web browsing capabilities or direct access to journal articles, you can follow these steps to manually locate the specific information:

- Go to the "Fafnir - Nordic Journal of Science Fiction and Fantasy Research" website.
- Search for Emily Midkiff's articles by browsing their archives or using a search function.
- Locate the June 2014 issue and find the article by Emily Midkiff.
- Read through the article to identify the word quoted by two authors regarding dragon depictions.
